1856	13 April	Brackley, NTH	charged with being drunk and disorderly			The Bicester Herald , 14 June 1856, 8
1856	9 June	Brackley, NTH	in magistrates court	James Blake, of Turweston, a blind man, who attends feasts, &c., as a violinist, was by Inspector Pannett, charged with having on the 13th of April, at Brackley, been drunk and disorderly. It appeared that at the time of the commital of the alleged offence, the accused was chargeable to the parish, got too much to drink at Evenley, and displayed his drunkenness at Brackley. The guardians had since taken off his pay, and he had, in consequence, become an inmate of the poor-house. With a lecture, he was discharged.		The Bicester Herald , 14 June 1856, 8

1850	11 July	Wytham Wood, near Eynsham, OXF	playing at a picnic	On Thursday, July 11, many of the inhabitants of Ensham enjoyed a pic nic by Wytham Wood. A marquee was erected, and a cold collation was supplied by Mr. Charles Rouse, of the Red Lion Inn, and much satisfaction was expressed at his arrangements. After the tea Mr. Richard Tredwell enlivened the company by playing the violin; dancing then commenced, and was kept up till a late hour, when all parted highly delighted with the enjoyment of the day.	Jackson's Oxford Journal , 20 July 1850, 2

1893	18 August	Alvescot, OXF	inquest	An inquest was held here on Friday 18th, inst. before the Coroner	The Witney Gazette ,

				(F. Westell, Esq.) touching the death of James Rouse, who died suddenly the previous day. The following evidence was adduced. Harriett Rouse, of Alvescott, deposed: The deceased is my father, James Rouse, of Alvescott, labourer, 86 years old. He was in very good health, considering his age, up to last Tuesday. He was up and about on that day, but on Wednesday he complained of his breathing, and he did not take his food so well. He had often complained of bad breathing. I saw him at 10 o'clock at night, and he seemed to be much the same. I then went to bed. A Lodger [sic] named Edmund Wheeler, slept in deceased's bedroom. He is very infirm, and 80 years old. The Lodger [sic] called out to me about 1-30 in the morning, and said, "get up, brother's very ill." I went to deceased directly. Deceased could not speak, but he made motions. I called my brother, William Rouse, and he came directly. I went down stairs, and left my brother with the deceased, and in a few minutes my brother called to me, that the deceased was dead. My brother is very ill, and unable to attend the inquest. Mr. J.P. Oates, surgeon, of Bampton, deposed: I have not attended the deceased professionally. There is nothing remarkable about the body. I have no doubt that deceased died from disease of his heart. Verdict in accordance with medical testimony.	26 August 1893, 4

1836	10 February	Kingston upon Hull, YKS	took an overdose of opium	On Wednesday evening week, George Hair, a blind fiddler residing in Waterhouse-lane, swallowed a large quantity of opium, and retired to bed. The fact of his having taken poison was suspected about seven o'clock, when Mr. Sharpe was called in, but the stupifying drug had then been operating two hours. The most strenuous means for his recovery were immediately resorted to, and continued, without intermission...	The Hull Packet , 19 February 1836, 2
1836	11 February	Kingston upon Hull, YKS	died	... until half-past five on Thursday morning, when he died from the effects of the opium. The deceased was a widower, and has left eight young children. He was very much intoxicated at the time of taking the poison, and had been the greater part of the week. An inquest was held on Friday morning, at the house of Mr. Acey, the Robin Hood, before T.B. Locke, Esq. coroner, on view of the body. The jury returned a verdict to the effect, that the deceased being accustomed to excessive drinking, and thereby being delirious, took a quantity of opium, which caused his death.	The Hull Packet , 19 February 1836, 2

1864	18 May	Alcester, WAR	playing for dancing	On Whit Monday, the Victoria Friendly Society of Men held their Anniversary at their Club House, the Dog and Partridge Inn...After dinner the company was considerably increased, and in the evening a band of music was in attendance, and dancing helped to pass away the evening in an agreeable manner. On the Wednesday, a very pleasant tea party took place in the same house, which was well attended; the tables were set out in	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 21 May 1864, 1

				remarkably good style, and were well supplied. In the evening dancing took place to the enlivening strains of Mr. Bleaney's violin, which was kept up with spirit, till a late hour.
1864	mid August	Wixford, WAR	playing for dancing	On Monday morning last, a select party of excursionists from Stratford, about 30 in number, arrived at this pleasant village, and having "put up" at the Fish Inn, boating and angling was in full requisition till mid-day, when a sumptuous dinner was served up by the hostess...[afterwards] the company adjourned to a large meadow, where, under the shade of a majestic oak, dancing commenced and was carried on with spirit until dusk, when an adjournment took place to the large room of the Inn ; refreshments were served, and dancing re-commenced, and did not terminate until a late hour, when the party returned again to Stratford, highly pleased with their day's excursion. Mr. S. Bleaney, whose violin had been engaged for the day, was present, and his efficient rendering of a well chosen selection of music gave great satisfaction to the company at large.	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 20 August 1864, 1
1864	mid December	Alcester, WAR	playing for dancing	The large room of the Red Horse Inn was opened for dancing on Monday last, and the company was both numerous and respectable. A quadrille party of twenty six was formed. Bleaney's String Band was present, and we need scarcely say that they formed a very considerable portion of the attractions of the evening. Songs were not wanting, and dancing and singing presented their alternate attractions for many hours, until morning was far advanced, and the party separated with the expression of a wish for a similar gathering at an early period.	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 21 December 1864, 1
1864	mid December	Wixford, WAR	playing for dancing	It has been a custom, of some years standing, to have a dancing party at the Fish Inn, Wixford, during the Christmas week. Hitherto it has been looked upon as a ball, but this year it was decided to make it of a somewhat less exclusive character. It took place on Wednesday evening, and a respectable company assembled upon the occasion, the number being about sixty. Dancing was kept up with spirit to the enlivening and harmonious strains of Bleaney's String Band, which discoursed most eloquent music.	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 21 December 1864, 1
1864	late December	Alcester, WAR	playing for dancing	As usual in Christmas week, the large room of the Red Horse Inn was opened for dancing on Wednesday last, when a very respectable company assembled. Bleaney's String Band was in attendance, and acquitted themselves with their usual ability. A number of old and favourite quadrilles were danced, as well as some of a more modern date, and dancing was kept up with spirit until an early hour of the morning.	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 30 December 1865, 1
1865	1 January	Wootton Waven, WAR	playing for dancing	THE ANNUAL PUBLIC BALL, which was attended by the élite of the neighbourhood, took place on Monday, January 1st, at Host Ivens's, Navigation Inn, Wootton Waven. Mr. Bleaney, assisted by other musicians belonging to the locality, by their strains of music, contributed greatly to enliven the evening. Dancing was kept up till an early hour ; those present thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and hoped to meet again another year.	The Alcester Chronicle & Warwickshire & Worcestershire Advertiser , 13 January 1866, 1

1860	4 January	Kirtlington, OXF		This ball took place at the Six Bells Inn, on the evening of the 4th inst., and was well attended by the respectable inhabitants of the village. Dancing commenced at nine o'clock, and was kept up with spirit till twelve, when the company adjoined to another room, where a cold repast was provided by the hostess, Mrs. Scarsbrook, and of which about 70 partook. Dancing was again resumed till daybreak, to the excellent music supplied by Mr. Cox and Mr. Lancebury, of Finstock, who were engaged for the occasion. Between the dances several good songs were sung, and this added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. Before the company separated, the hostess kindly provided them gratuitously with breakfast, of which about forty partook, and all appeared perfectly satisfied with the evening's entertainment.	Jackson's Oxford Journal , 14 January 1860, 8
